

Chrissy Maddison

Chrissy Maddison is a Balingup local creative and homeschooling mum of two.. As a performer she explores music, theatre and poetry to express her inner world and connection to nature.

Chrissy has spent recent years participating in many community arts projects across the Southwest. She is the Chair & Artistic Director of BACH - Balingup Arts & Cultural Hub and teaches regular classes for children, including JamBop music and dance classes for little people and creative arts for older children. She also runs Cacophony CommUnity Choir in Balingup.

Her passion is sharing her love of the arts to create connection, and support the creative journeys of others.

Junktastic is craft with a musical twist! Repurpose unwanted household packaging into cool percussion instruments ready for shaking and rattling in the Parade!

In her workshop Story-Poem, Chrissy will guide the participants through a process of creative writing, discovering word play and finally structuring a poem of their own to keep forever.
